Entrepreneurship education and the great unknown

According to a report from Dell, 85 percent of jobs that will exist in 2030 haven't been invented yet. Preparing students for a workforce that is virtually unknown can be daunting. By preparing students to be entrepreneurs, you're preparing students to manage the unknown successfully.

Register for our next CERTIFIED Academy: Business session to dive into entrepreneurship. On February 8th at 4 PM ET, experts from the Network for Teaching Entrepreneurship will discuss how to ensure tomorrow's leaders are prepared with the toolkit they need to navigate tomorrow's competitive landscape.

Lessons from an Adobe Champion originally from the Dominican Republic, Salma Sanchez moved to the united States a couple years ago. In her short time in the US, she’s managed to earn multiple Adobe Certified Professional certifications, and take first place in the Adobe Certified Professional World Championship.

During our chat with Salma, we discussed her experiences at the competition, how it helped prepare her for college and her work designing for real-life clients, and how today’s students can prepare for this amazing opportunity.
