Give your students a strong digital foundation

Technology is a part of our everyday lives and understanding how to function in environments that require the use of computers, and the Internet is more critical now than ever before. Whether your students plan to pursue a career in IT, or simply become more effective with technology, building a strong digital foundation is the place to start.

In our next CERTIFIED Academy: Business webinar, March 1st at 4 PM ET, we’ll learn from educators about how to help students learn digital basics, and what students need to master before they can successfully expand their digital skillset.

As an educator, you want to know that the work you do makes a difference. Having students share their experience with certification helps you see the impact you have! During our latest Ask a Champion webinar, we were able to highlight one of our 2022 Adobe Certified Professional US Champions, Avery Blanchard.

She gave us an inside look into her experience at the Adobe Certified Professional Championship. We talked about how the competition helped prepare her for college and her work designing for real-life clients, and how it helped build her confidence, helping her reach outside her shell.

Learn from global keynote speaker, content creator, and activist, Spencer West

The life of visionary and activist Spencer West has been marked by both obstacles and triumphs. After losing both legs from the pelvis down at the age of five, he entered a world that might have easily defeated him. Instead, he tackled challenge after challenge, learning to navigate in a world set against those with disabilities. His many accomplishments and lessons learned along the way led him to discover the techniques business leaders, professionals, educators, and young people can use to redefine possible in their own lives and careers.

Celebrating Black History Month

Empowering students of color

One place to start correcting racial and economic inequities is in the classroom. A study from the U.S. Census Bureau shows that Black students are much more likely to stay in the bottom quintile of income distribution and much less likely to move up the income distribution over a generation than their white counterparts. For our efforts to correct racial injustice to succeed, we will need supportive teachers to help empower the students of color in their classrooms.

Climbing the ranks at Amazon in the U.S. Capitol

A D.C. native and long-time Excel enthusiast, Bruce turned down football scholarship offers from colleges because they didn’t have mechanical engineering programs. His passion for knowledge even led him to earn a staggering 13 certifications, along with the title of Microsoft Office Specialist Excel U.S. National Champion. Bruce’s ride has been unconventional and inspiring, and we can’t wait for you to hear his story.
