Join us for CERTIFIED Academy

CERTIFIED Academy: Design starts now!

CERTIFIED Academy: Design is an immersive online professional development program for CTE educators, particularly those focusing on design and engineering with Adobe, Autodesk, and Unity applications. This is your chance to learn from your fellow creative educators and industry professionals.

From now until June, we'll be hosting training sessions to help you learn from design and engineering education experts and industry professionals. Discover new ways of teaching, and dive into available resources for your classroom. Plus, those who register will receive a professional development certificate, allowing you to demonstrate the hours you spent learning and growing through CERTIFIED Academy.

Microsoft Office Specialist in adult and higher education

Last chance to join CERTIFIED Academy: Business

In the US over 1.17 million jobs request Microsoft Office skills. If you work with students in higher education or job switchers, preparing your learners with these skills is crucial to their future job search and career success.

Join us on March 29th at 4 PM ET when we'll be talking with educators who work with adult and collegiate learners. We'll discuss how to successfully establish a Microsoft Office Specialist certification program at your institution.

Empowering emergent bilinguals with certifications

The number of emergent bilingual (EB) students is on the rise. According to the latest data from the National Center for Education Statistics, over 10% of public-school students across the country speak English as a second language. You likely have a few in your own classroom. How do you make sure their educational experience is as rich and meaningful as students who speak English as their first language?

Anna Maria Zuniga shares her thoughts on how to honor EB students' cultural and language heritage, how to bolster their confidence, and how to help them expand their vocabulary to tackle technical learning and prepare for industry certifications. Educators who work with EB students will find wonderful motivation, insight, and valuable resources from Anna’s experience.
